

A Treatise of Gods Free Grace and Mans Free Will

William Perkins (1558–1602) was a minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and a famous Cambridge theologian. He was one of the foremost leaders of the Puritan movement in the Church of England before the Westminster Assembly and was a mentor to such astute puritans as Jeremiah Burroughs. He was a celebrated divine who wrote voluminously on a number of important theological and practical topics including a number of works on Gods grace. The Works of William Perkins have not been reprinted until now in these short treatises. This treatise is an echo of Scripture teaching how Gods will and mans will work in their respective spheres, and with each other working from his text, Matthew 23:37-38. This work is designed to humble the creature in realizing that Gods free grace is that which enables man to believe the Gospel. And it also teaches that mans free will is actually a slave to his desires. Perkins covers the will of God looking at both Gods sovereignty and Gods good pleasure in light of Jerusalems unwillingness to repent. He also covers the will of man in four important areas: in the garden before the fall, after the fall, in light of and after regeneration, and glorified in heaven.
