This is the definitive book on the creative SELF-Empowerment process. It demystifies the difference between reacting to life's circumstances and becoming more creative. The author has tapped into the deep wisdom in Nature and translated the order he finds there into a guide based on the human quest for love, joy and passion for life. Lawrence Poole is uniquely qualified to have written this important book. In 1977, his life was suddenly interrupted by a tragic car accident in which he was clinically dead and left paralyzed. He spent weeks in intensive care and months in hospitals and had plenty of time to think about his own limits, motivations and inner resources. Later, wheelchair-bound for life and with a dismal prognosis, Lawrence took up the challenge to rebuild his health by discovering and then imitating Nature's strategic processes. In this book, he demystifies self-motivation, self-management, and self-empowerment. He explains the concept of creative capital in a way that's supported by both ancient wisdom and modern science. Lawrence has included simple, efficient illustrations to explain complex subjects, pragmatic personal development tools and 37 at-a-glance syntheses to help readers: Understand and appropriate their own creative capital ;. Free themselves from limiting thinking patterns ;. Strategically manage their emotional intelligence ;. Recognize the links between the inner dialogue and stress ;. Integrate the principles of self-actualization into daily thinking ;. Improve their communication and their relationships ;. Develop inner strength, passion and personal power ;. Realize their goals and dreams .
