

The Last Judgment And World Religions (Polyglot Press Religion Series)

The major western religions have traditionally taught that when a person dies, he or she goes either to heaven or to hell and remains there forever. Although the belief in endless torment has been questioned in recent centuries, the traditional view of the four last things death, judgment, heaven, and hell --continues to shape many persons understanding of the present and expectations about the future. While this view of the last things is familiar in the West, the religions of south and east Asia have a different outlook. For Hinduism and Buddhism this human life is merely one in an ongoing series of lives, with no abiding separation between sheep (the saved) and goats (the damned). Dr. Peebles asks why the eastern and western beliefs are so different and looks for explanations. The monotheism of the western faiths is a significant element, but many other doctrines, including views of the nature of God, scripture and authority, human nature, justice, and punishment are also involved. Dr. Peebles concludes that the tradition of an everlasting hell is incompatible with an accurate interpretation of scripture and with the Christian doctrine of God. Peebles unique contribution to the understanding of western religions is his argument that hell cannot be eternal. Examining carefully the eastern religions, which have no tradition of eternal hell, and the western tradition in support of it, he concludes that an eternal hell is illogical and incompatible with western beliefs, especially as articulated in Christianity. The subject of this book is not unique, but its breadth of treatment, the comparison with eastern religions, and above all the conclusion rejecting the eternality of hell are, taken together, unique. This book is an essential addition to scholarship in eschatology.
