

House Whisper: Energies of Man, Places and Spaces

We all live in a place and a space we call home. But how deeply connected to it are we? According to quantum physics, more than 90 percent of reality is invisible. This apparently empty space is actually filled with energy that contains intelligence and stores all past, present, and future events. By sharing his personal journey from living a life of separation to one of connection, Georg guides you on your own journey to nurture a deeper connection with yourself and your environment. This book also helps you with exercises to create that sense of connection with inner and outer spaces. Georg takes you through the process of feeling the energies in and around to create a deep sense of belonging within.
