This book asks you specifically to stick out your neck but not towards the ground, like an ostrich, but in the opposite direction towards the sun, like a giraffe. This is the difference between a reactive life, one where you only react to what is happening around you, and a proactive life, one where you take one hundred percent responsibility for your own mental, physical, emotional and spiritual well-being. It encourages you to develop your own strengths more and to implement positive changes in behavior step by step. Becoming and staying mentally and physically well-balanced is the ultimate goal. Small steps one after the other, bring about a big change in the long run. GIRAFFE stands for: Growth Insight Reflection Action Focus Flow Esteem Sometimes we dread something so much that we cannot spur ourselves into action. Of course you can fret endlessly about how hard it is all going to be. But that never helped anyone. Decide today to take that first step, the step towards a better, healthier life.
