

I got it all but still single

You are a successful young lady probably in your thirties, with a great relationship with God, great career, stable income, loving family, awesome friends but still single. If I told you that most likely you are the biggest reason why you are not married you might give me a high five on the face. But the truth is majority of you, you are sabotaging yourself. Self sabotage is when in your heart you want one thing, but your words and actions say the exact opposite. It is when you say with your mouth that you want to get married but with the same mouth you say that all men are dogs or pigs. Self sabotage is when you want to move forward but you are still holding on to your past. Self sabotage is basically being your own prophet of doom or being the very hand that stops good things from happening to you. This book will help you as much as it can to see the reason you could still be single and what steps to take to change that status unless you have been called to celibacy. Otherwise everyone else has been called to marriage. God himself said it is not good for man to be alone. Genesis 2:18. Its a kind of book encouraging ladies to set themselves up to walk down the aisle and avoid all the excuses. Confronting the issue and dealing with it, its the best you can do and save yourself lots of heartache. If your life is work, church and home you are limiting yourself to being found. And be cautious about your girlfriends who use scare tactics and manipulation to convince you that everyman in your life is a demon, just so you know, misery loves company.
