

Paul Ricoeur and the Poetic Imperative: The Creative Tension between Love and Justice (SUNY series in Theology and Continental Thought)

Looks at Ricoeurs writings on love and justice, prominent toward the end of his life, and how these serve as an interpretive key to his thought as a whole. This book addresses the thought of Paul Ricoeur (1913-2005), paying particular attention to the creative tension between love and justice as principle themes in his work. Dealing with these issues chiefly in his writings on religion, Ricoeur explored the tension between the biblical ideals of the golden rule and the religious formulation of a principle of justice and the love command. Author W. David Hall shows how these ideals continually speak to each other in Ricoeurs work, how they operate creatively on each other, and how each serves as a corrective to the perversions of the other. Hall maintains that although issues of love and justice became prominent comparatively late in Ricoeurs corpus, they provide a sustained trajectory throughout his work and are an important interpretive key for understanding Ricoeurs intellectual project as a whole. Offers a well-argued and illuminating discussion of Ricoeurs ethical project. Halls substantial contribution to Ricoeurian scholarship is especially relevant for readers interested in Ricoeurs theological ethics, ethical hermeneutics, and dialectics of experience. Conversations in Religion and Theology Hall draws out insights on ethics, selfhood, and a host of other topics from Ricoeurs entire career, making this a worthwhile book for theologians and philosophers interested in hermeneutics, phenomenology, and related subjects. Religious Studies Review W. David Hall offers a finely textured portrayal of Paul Ricoeurs writings as a thematic unity of hermeneutical phenomenology, philosophical anthropology, and theological poetics. Of singular importance is the authors sustained argument that Ricoeurs theological texts provide an often overlooked context for understanding his wider philosophical project. Calvin O. Schrag, author of Convergence amidst Difference: Philosophical Conversations across National Boundaries. W. David Hall is Assistant Professor of Religion and Philosophy at Centre College and coeditor (with John Wall and William Schweiker) of Paul Ricoeur and Contemporary Moral Thought.
