

Parting Words: What To Say and Do When Someone Dies

Parting Words is step-by-step practical guidelines and tips on what to do and say when a family member or friend passes away. This book is an easy to use handbook on funeral planning, sympathy condolences and funeral etiquette. It is a simple and sobering fact that most people are not prepared for a death. The unfortunate truth is that at some point we all face the uncomfortable reality and grief of losing a loved one. If you are called upon to handle the details before, during and after a personal loss, you need first-hand, practical information on what to do and say. Parting Words can help you become a key or supportive person at a funeral and beyond. Parting Words includes instructive chapters on:

- Meaningful individualized funeral services
- Writing a memorable obituary
- Eulogy outlines, detailed samples and delivery techniques
- Selections of Music, Readings and Flowers
- Practical checklists for home and services
- Funeral etiquette and customs
- Dealing realistically with grief
- Personal and written condolences
- How to really help others following a loss
- The right words and actions can recognize pain, offer comfort and promise hope and healing.

Learn how you can be of service and help at such a critical time. If you have the task of organizing a funeral, writing the obituary, delivering the eulogy or are just someone who wants to express sincere condolences, Parting Words is a trusted resource, full of ideas and examples to help you be a vital source of strength and comfort. No act of kindness on your part is ever wasted.
