

The Levelland UFO Case

Six years earlier, the skies over Lubbock, Texas had been filled with invading UFOs. Now, late in 1957 at the height of the cotton harvest, it was happening all over again at the small Texas town of Levelland thirty miles to the east. Around Midnight, during a time span of less than three hours, at least fifteen citizens of that community were terrorized by one or more UFOs of unknown origin as they traveled the highways and farm roads outside town. Each of the witnesses saw objects of the same description and they experienced identical automotive malfunctions of their vehicles. Almost sixty years have passed and there has, to this day, never been an acceptable answer to the question of what happened that night.
