

Walking in the Drakensberg: 75 walks in the uKhahlamba-Drakensberg Park (Cicerone Guides)

The Drakensberg Mountains of KwaZulu Natal, South Africa, have a spectacular natural beauty. This range of huge peaks, towering basalt cliffs, massive sandstone outcrops, deep gorges, and crystal-clear mountain streams forms the core of an area of outstanding walking potential with something for everyone. The area has a unique geological structure and a fascinating history. Add to this a large variety of antelope and other mammals as well as a regular bird list of over 200 species and its easy to understand why the uKhahlamba-Drakensberg Park has been designated a World Heritage Site. - 75 day walks in 11 of the 13 recognised areas - range from one km to 20km, and from easy to strenuous - packed with information about the abundant wildlife in the Park
